

Harvard University Department of Music
Tenured Faculty Position in Musicology

The Department of Music at Harvard University seeks to appoint a distinguished musicologist of international reputation to a tenured rank of full professor to begin in July 2011. We seek applicants with an outstanding publication record in one or more periods between the Late Middle Ages and the Eighteenth Century. PhD or equivalent is required; ladder-faculty experience or equivalent preferred. Candidates should have strong teaching skills and be prepared to take on a broad range of responsibilities in both our undergraduate and graduate programs. Teaching duties will include two courses per semester, at the undergraduate and graduate levels.

A letter of application and curriculum vitae or nomination should be sent by October 12, 2010 to: musearch@fas.harvard.edu

Professor Alexander Rehdig
Chair, Musicology Search Committee

Harvard University is an equal opportunity/affirmative action employer. Applications from women and minority groups are strongly encouraged.